Summer Environmental Education Intern

21 hours/week | (June 25th – Aug. 16th) | $15/hour

Open to Graduate or Undergraduate Students (full- or part-time)

APPLICATIONS DUE: May 1, 2017 | One position available

- Deliver on-water community education program to help youth and adults access the outdoors and learn about local ecology, with a focus on plants, watershed ecology, natural history, sustainable development, wildlife, and water quality.
- Help identify potential partners serving communities of color and assess needs and barriers to accessing local natural areas and outdoor education opportunities.
- The typical work schedule will be Tues, Wed, and Thurs, from approximately 8:00 a.m. – 3:30 p.m. with occasional evening and weekends.

We place a priority on applications from students who come from diverse populations and underserved communities, including communities of color and low-income communities.
