Catalogue Description and Course Goals

Instruction and practice in developing group treatments for children and adolescents in clinical and school settings. Students explore group dynamics, potential problems encountered when running children's groups, and generalization and maintenance of behavioral change. Specific issues including divorce, substance use, grief, and social skills will also be addressed.

In this class, we will address topics ranging from very practical "how to" applications of group counseling to more theoretical constructs of group dynamics and group interaction. There will be a heavy emphasis placed on the experiential and dialogic aspects of group learning in this class. The primary goal of this class is to help participants increase skills, comfort level, and flexibility as group leaders and group counselors.

Course Requirements

Pre-Assessment-Part One

As a major component of this course, you will be supervised as you co-lead a social skills counseling group for children with students from Ron Russell Middle School in the David Douglas school district on nine scheduled days during class time online. So that we can make appropriate group leadership pairings, please write briefly on the questions (400 words total): 1) your history/experience/familiarity with group counseling or leading groups; 2) skills you imagine are most important in group counseling leadership; 3) strengths and challenges you bring to group leadership; 4) why group counseling is important. This assignment is to be completed as a Google Doc entitled 514 Pre-Assessment, Last Name. This Google Doc is to be completed and shared with both Peter Mortola and Diane Gans by Monday, January 17th, 12:00pm.

Pre-Assessment-Part Two

As you co-lead the sixth-grade groups, you will receive supervision and evaluation on your participation, efforts and growth within these group sessions. In part, your skills will be evaluated in reference to those listed in the Group Leadership Dialectical Skills below in this syllabus. Your supervisors will use this rubric to give you developmental feedback during the course and summative feedback at the end of the course. You are asked to evaluate yourself on the four major items (and relevant sub-items) at the beginning of the course using a four-point scale (i.e. 4=most competent in, 1=most challenged by). Please add a few sentences for each dialectical skill in addition to the rating. This assignment is to be completed on the same Google Doc entitled 514 Pre-Assessment, Last Name. This Google Doc is to be completed and shared with both Peter Mortola and Diane Gans by Tuesday, January 24th, 12:00 pm.

Mid-Term and End-of-Term Evaluation Rubric

The criteria listed on this document will be used in this course to evaluate students at both the mid-term and at the end of the course. The professors will be identifying both strengths as well as challenges, adding appropriate comments and goals that will facilitate further personal and professional development. Students are expected to implement supervision and feedback from the mid-term evaluation in the remainder of the term.

514 Journal

Co-leaders are required to complete 9 journal entries this term reflecting on their developing leadership skills and in which they successfully address the following criteria:

- Sharing: Co-leaders share with both supervisors (via Google Docs) one document named “514 Journal SP 22, last names” in which all journal entries will be included. Co-leaders share the entries with supervisors by noon on the Monday it is due. Supervisors will send back comments before the next group. Co-leaders add additional comments to the shared document reflecting on supervisor feedback, asking for additional supervision if needed. Supervisors will grade each paper (i.e. 4=Exceeds; 3=Meets; 2=Approaches; 1=Does not meet) based on the following criteria:
- Pragmatics: Co-leaders include # of journal entry and date for each entry, adding the entry above all previous entries and leaving the previous week’s supervisor comments. Co-leaders use clear and effective spelling, punctuation, and grammar in communicating ideas succinctly in 400-500 words per entry. Co-leaders use clear and effective construction for meaning at all levels (sentence, paragraph and whole paper) with helpful transitions between each provided. Both sections described below are complete and are well-articulated (within and between):
- Looking Back: Co-leaders include a brief narrative description of a positive or challenging moment in the past group session and includes relevant information about group setting, members, session, and the piece of the curriculum being addressed. Co-leaders reflect on the dialectical leadership skills or knowledge of group process to reflect on the moment described. Co-leaders summarize what was learned as a person and professional, sets goals for practice addressing “growing edges” as a group leader, and asks any relevant questions regarding supervision.
- Looking Forward: Co-leaders outline in detail the plan for the next group session, including activities for opening, body, energizers, and closing. Co-leaders provide a rationale for each section based on identified group needs. Co-leaders include information on which co-leader will take the lead on each item, as well as what potential challenges may arise and ideas for proactively addressing those challenges.

Practicum Group Data Presentation

On the last day of class, students are asked to present qualitative and quantitative group evaluation data (maintaining anonymity for group members) to the class and school professionals for reflection and discussion. Students create and present a brief, 5-minute presentation of 5-7 slides regarding group data and findings (using a shared in the class Google Slides presentation) including the following:

- Introduction Slide: Image of group, group name, demographic information, etc.
- Quantitative data: Provide one or more images/graphs that represents the cumulative results of the weekly survey data you collected each week in your group: Focus on relevant aspects of the data (e.g. whole group change over time reflected in pre/post data or weekly survey data, individual student comparisons, etc.)
- Qualitative: Provide 3-5 relevant examples of visual images and/or verbal transcripts from the weekly sessions or the closing card activity that speak to or stand out from the overall experience in your group.
- Summary reflections: Briefly address: 1) what the data tells you in terms of group effectiveness; 2) What you have learned in the process of leading this group; and 3) What you would recommend for the sixth-grade group project moving forward.

CPSY Departmental Attendance Policy

Class attendance is expected and required. Any missed class time will be made up by completing extra assignments designed by the instructor (see below). Missing more than ten percent of class time may result in failure to complete the class. This would be 4.5 hours of a 45 hour class (3 credits), 3.0 hours for a 30 hour class (2 credits) or 1.5 hours for a 15 hour class (1 credit.) In case of extreme hardship and also at the discretion of the instructor, a grade of incomplete may be given for an assignment or the entire course. In such cases, the work to be submitted in order to remove the incomplete must be documented appropriately and stated deadlines met. Students are expected to be on time to class and tardiness may be seen as an absence that requires make-up work.

Make-up Assignment

Any significant missed class time will require a standard make-up assignment, due the following week: A three page paper in which the student: 1) describes what was learned from interviewing two individuals who attended the missed class time; 2) discusses the chapters due during the week missed, including comments, questions and what was learned; 3) discusses challenges/successes encountered in leading the practicum group that week.

Disability Services Statement:

If you have a disability that may impact your academic performance, you may request accommodations by submitting documentation to the Student Support Services Office in the Albany Quadrangle (x7156). After you have submitted documentation and filled out paperwork there for the current semester requesting accommodations, staff in that office will notify the instructor of the accommodations for which you are eligible.

Non-Discrimination Policy and Special Assistance

Lewis & Clark College adheres to a nondiscriminatory policy with respect to employment, enrollment, and program. The College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, sex, national origin, age, handicap or disability, sexual orientation, or marital status and has a firm commitment to promote the letter and spirit of all equal opportunity and civil rights laws. If you need course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability and/or you have emergency medical information to share please make an appointment with the instructor.

Graduate School Grade Policy

"The grade of B- is the lowest grade that carries graduate credit. Courses receiving grades lower than B- will not carry graduate credit, but will be included in the student's cumulative G.P.A. A student receiving a grade below B- in a required course must repeat the course and earn a passing grade."

CPSY 514 Journal Example: "Looking Back"

"The following is a transcript from the recording of our group session during week six. At this point in the session, we had been creating a list of the things that students get teased for and then we were discussing each of those items on the list. In this case, we were specifically talking about how students can get teased for what they wear, or more generally, their appearance:

Leader: "Who has ever been teased for their clothes or appearance?"

Miguelito: "It happens a lot, like if you wear sketchers."

Cherise: "I love sketchers, I think they are comfortable."

Leader: "Who decides what is cool or uncool?"

Cherise: "I'll tell you. See Jake's? (Cherise pointing to Jake's shoes.) How they are like stylish. Sketchers like light up and people say that they are like childish. Has to be Jordans or Nikes or Adidas or Tims or Concordes."

Leader: "I bet if all of the other kids wore sketchers then they would be cool. What would happen if everyone started wearing sketchers?"

Cherise: "Then everyone would think they were cool. Now that we are talking about this I need to say something. I used to be a bully. There were kids I didn't like and I would say they were ugly or they couldn't afford this or that. I would feel bad when I got home. When I got to 6th grade I would see people get in fights or bully and I stopped bullying because I didn't want to do that anymore."

Leader: "Thank you for sharing that Cherish. I can look back at times where there were things that I did that was also bullying behavior, but it might not have felt that way because there were others doing it too. It's something when you look back you feel bad about..."

This felt like a big moment for our group. Cherish had become comfortable enough in the group that she felt she could divulge information about her own past and bullying behavior. This reminded me of the dialectical skills integration and differentiation. This concept identifies that it is possible to grow closer to a group and feel a stronger sense of belonging by venturing out and differentiating yourself from that same group. These may seem like two opposing ideas, but there is an understanding in this case that a balance between these skills is necessary. If a person does not feel established in the group, they may not feel ready to share how they are different from others. If they differentiate themselves too much, they may end up too far from the group, and will lose that protection.

Earlier in the group Lily shared her story about standing by while a fellow student was bullied. She spoke about her fears of getting in trouble, she talked about feeling bad for the bullied child, and she conveyed feelings that she wished she had acted differently in the situation. Lily was able to model vulnerability to the group, and through that vulnerability, differentiate herself. The stories that our group members shared after hearing Lily's story showed that they connected with what she had to say. They shared feeling of sympathy for the situation Lily found herself in, feelings of sympathy for the bullied girl, and a recognition that kids in their classes experience the same type of bullying behavior. It was powerful to see the students make connections between Lily's story and their own experiences. They then opened up about their own experiences and shared personal stories regarding situations in which they were bullied. These stories all differentiated our group members from each other, they were embarrassing stories, but as they shared them, they became emboldened by others' sharing. They put themselves at risk for speaking out about their own perceived embarrassing experiences (differentiation), and then were embraced by the group for sharing such experiences (integration)."
