CATALOG DESCRIPTION

Sexual health and introduction to treatment of sexual issues. Topics include sexual development across the lifespan, sexual orientation and identity, critique of the social construction of sex, systemic bio-psycho-social spiritual assessment of sexual well-being, and treatment of specific sexual problems.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course introduces participants to working with sexual issues, primarily in couple relationships. Because the course relies heavily on family and couple therapy theory and practice, CPSY 504 and CPSY 562 are prerequisites and CPSY 560 is a co-requisite for this course. This is an advanced course that requires participants to apply what they are learning about couple and family therapy to the specific specialized area of sex therapy. In this course, we will explore the social construction of sex, gender and sexuality continuums, feminist critiques of dominant sexual discourses, a bio-psycho-social spiritual approach to understanding and treating sexual problems, sexual development, the impact of sex abuse on adult sexual functioning, major sexual dysfunctions and their treatments, and other important topics.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Participants in this course will:

1. Understand the social construction of sexuality and sexual functioning relative to social, historical, and cultural contexts, including how these contexts serve to privilege some expressions of sexuality while oppressing others;
2. Understand a variety of human sexuality issues (e.g., gender, sexual functioning, and sexual orientation), human development and sexuality, and the impact of sexuality/sexual issues on family and couple functioning;
3. Develop fluency and comfort talking about sex and sexual functioning with individuals and couples;
4. Learn to assess sexual issues from a bio-psycho-social spiritual perspective that includes an analysis of power imbalances relative to sex;
5. Learn primary treatment approaches and techniques for resolving sexual problems and consider their use within specific cultural and social contexts;
6. Consider treatment issues specific to sex therapy with heterosexual, lesbian, gay, trans, and bi-sexual couples/families; and
7. Explore own biases relative to sexual orientation and sexual practices that are likely to influence work with clients.

NON-DISCRIMINATION POLICY/SPECIAL ASSISTANCE

TEXTS AND MATERIALS

There are two texts for this course:

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND EVALUATION

In this course, you will be required to complete a group presentation and to take a final exam. Each is worth 50% of your grade.

Group Presentation
Groups of 2-4 students will chose from the following topics:
Treating issues rated to:
sexual desire
Vaginismus
Premature ejaculation
Retarded ejaculation
Erectile dysfunction
Female orgasm
Each presentation should include 1) recent literature on the disorder, including critiques of how these problems are constructed, 2) recent trends in medical treatments and the impact of these on therapy, 3) at least 2 systemic approaches that have been used or can be used in treatment, 4) any evidence based treatments and/or research that is relevant to treatment, and 5) consideration of treatment with couples who are straight, gay, lesbian, trans, and/or bi-sexual. You are welcome to add any additional information that you think is important for therapists to know. Each presentation must include a “cheat sheet” for each class participant. This should include major points, resources, and references. These are intended to serve as quick references in practice. 50 points

Final Exam

The final exam may include fill in the blank, short answer, essay, true and false, and multiple choice questions and will cover all course readings and content. 50 points
