CATALOG DESCRIPTION

Applications of family systems approach to treatment of families in crisis and transition. Topics include issues such as substance abuse, domestic violence, sexual abuse, trauma and loss, poverty, and chronic illnesses. A portion of this course emphasizes clinical case conceptualization and treatment planning.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Family therapists are continually confronted with violent relational systems. Family violence is widespread and heeds competency, awareness, and action from family therapists on an individual, familial, and societal level. This course is designed to provide family therapists with introductory knowledge and skills for the assessment and intervention of family violence. The curriculum is informed primarily by feminist and critical multicultural theories and practices.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Students in this course will develop a working knowledge of assessing and treating domestic violence in the treatment of individuals, couples, children, and families from a relational/systemic perspective. This includes developing adequate safety and intervention plans.

ASSIGNMENTS

Readings
Students are expected to complete the assigned readings prior to class and to synthesize and apply them in class. Classroom discussions are an opportunity to bring up questions about the assigned readings, deepen one’s understanding of the issues under study, and integrate course material with one’s own personal and professional experience. Demonstration that reading assignments have been completed is worth 10 points.

Reaction paper
Students will complete one 2-3-page reaction paper on working with domestic violence. The paper may address some of the following topics:

- Types of violence that create fear, anxiety, or doubt of competency for you
- Making sense of family violence
- Personal strengths that might contribute to working effectively with family violence
- Personal areas of growth regarding work with family violence
- Family violence in the media— influence on counseling and therapy
- Working with child protective services in cases of suspected or substantiated child physical or emotional abuse
- Role of family therapist in family violence
- Negotiating broader contextual forces (i.e., sexism, racism, classism, heterosexism) when working with family violence

The paper is worth 20 points. This assignment does not require any personal disclosure, unless you would like to. The paper will not be shared with the rest of the class.

Final paper
Students will complete a 4-6 page final paper. A case example will be provided and students will be asked to discuss case conceptualization, treatment options, and relevant self-of-the-therapist issues. Students are expected to use theoretical literature and research in support of their ideas and opinions. At least 5 peer-reviewed articles or book chapters should be cited. Instructions for completing the final paper will be provided in class.

The final paper should be double spaced, 12 pt font, and in APA 5 format. The paper should be submitted via e-mail (marisolg1965@yahoo.com and benkomir@sbcglobal.net) by June 15, 2007. Late papers will receive lower grades.
