COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course integrates spirituality and religion into the practice of family therapy. Special attention is paid to spiritual/religious/non-religious self-of-the-therapist awareness; developing competence and spiritual/religious fluency; and integrating spirituality and religion into the practice of family therapy.

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES
The goals of this course focus on the following Student Learning Outcomes:
SLO1.2: Students recognize the interconnections among biological, psychological, social systems in people’s lived experience.
SLO 1.3: Students apply systems/relational theories to clinical case conceptualization

COURSE OBJECTIVES
Participants will
- Explore self of the therapist relative to spirituality and/or religion
- Become more familiar with assessing spirituality/religion with clients
- Better understand spiritual and religious diversity
- Practice introducing spirituality and/or religion in therapy sessions
- Deepen connection between spirituality and/or religion, resilience, change, strengths, and solutions
- Be better prepared to integrate spirituality/religion into family therapy

ASSIGNMENTS

1) Class Preparation – Readings (Due May 14 & 15, 2016)
Participants are expected to complete the assigned readings and to synthesize and apply them in class. Classroom discussions are an opportunity to bring up questions about the assigned readings, deepen one’s understanding of the issues under study, and integrate course material with one’s own personal and professional experience. (10 points)

2) Interview Assignment (Due June 2, 2016) (90 points)
The final assignment requires you to complete an interview with a non-clinical couple or family about their spirituality and/or religious beliefs. The interview should take about an hour to an hour and a half. In class you will work with colleagues to prepare questions for your interview. During the interview you will explore various areas including:

- How each person in the family identifies relative to spiritual and/or religious beliefs/non-beliefs.
- Spiritual genograms, eco-maps or life maps for the adults in the family.
- Differences between family members and the impact of these differences in both family-of-origin and current family/couple relationships.
- The impact of beliefs on resilience; how has spirituality and/or religion helped family members and relationships between family members be resilient?
- The impact of beliefs and/or religious experience that were or are experienced as oppressive or harmful in any way to any family members or relationships.
- Anything else you or the couple/family want to explore about religion and/or spirituality.

You will write a paper based on the interview. The paper should include the following:

1. Description of the couple/family including how they identify relative to spirituality/religion (10 points)
2. A spiritual genogram, eco-map or life map for each adult interviewed along with a short narrative that explains what you discovered as a result of using the tool (20 points)
3. Transcriptions of five of the questions you asked and the answers given. This does not need to be transcribed from a recording, but should give the reader a sense of what you asked and how interviewees responded to your questions (10 points)
4. Analysis of the impact of religion and/or spirituality on the family members and their relationships (50 points). Here you need to include references to the literature. Grading for this section will be broken down as follows:
   a. Comprehensive analysis of relational dynamics relative to spirituality and/or religion (10 points)
   b. Affects of beliefs on strengths and resilience as individuals and relationships (10 points)
   c. Affects of religious/spiritual oppression on individuals and relationships (10 points)
   d. Referencing main points using at least resources from the class as well as at least three additional resources from the literature (10 points)
   e. APA style writing, structuring of paper, and referencing (10 points)
